

If you're concerned about your parents' hearing, getting them a hearing test is easy, and it's something you should do.

There are over 36 million Americans with hearing loss. Over half of them are under the age of 65. Recent studies are showing that ignoring hearing loss can contribute to other problems down the road including Alzheimer's Disease, Dementia, Depression and a loss of cognitive function. These studies are showing that hearing is yet another ability that when you "don't use it, you lose it."

For people over the age of 65, we recommend an annual hearing exam. The exam is FREE, so take advantage of that today.

"I practiced medicine for 38 years. In the last few years I began noticing hearing loss. I visited several clinics and tried other hearing aids and nothing was a good fit. It got to where I just couldn't use a stethoscope the way I needed to and

I retired. Years later my wife came to Audibel. She loved her hearing aids so much that I decided to give Audibel a try, and I've been wearing their Invisibel hearing aids ever since. Now if I would have found Audibel sooner, I wonder if I would have been able to keep practicing medicine.
